Our Canadian Martyrs

Gabriel Lalemant was born in Paris, October 31, 1610, the son of a French jurist and his wife. He was the third of six children, five of whom entered religious life. Two of Gabriel's uncles served the Jesuits in New France: Charles Lalemant as the first Superior of the Jesuit missions in Canada, and Jérôme Lalemant as the Vicar-General of Ouebec.

In 1630 Lalemant joined the Jesuits, and in 1632 he took the vow to devote himself to foreign missions. He taught at the Collège in Moulins from 1632 to 1635. He was at Bourges from 1635 to 1639 studying theology and was ordained there in 1638. He taught at three different schools, being professor of philosophy at Moulins. In September 1646 he arrived in Quebec, where his uncle Jérôme Lalemant was head of the Canadian mission.

Little is known about Lalemant's stay in Quebec. Father Bressani, a fellow missionary in New France, referred to him as a man of extremely frail constitution. For the first two years Gabriel worked in and around Quebec and the trading center of Trois Rivières (Three Rivers). In September 1648 he was sent to Wendake, the land of the Wyandot (Huron), as an assistant to Father Jean de Brébeuf, and posted to the mission at Sainte-Marie among the Hurons. In February 1649 he replaced Noël Chabanel at the mission of Saint Louis.

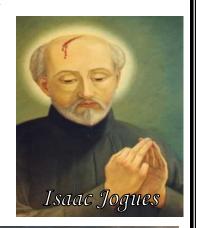

In March 1649, while most of the Huron warriors were away, 1,200 Iroquois attacked the settlement of Saint Ignace. A few survivors escaped to warn the village of St. Louis. Its eighty warriors fought to delay the attackers, trying to enable the elderly, women, and children to flee. Lalemant and Brébeuf remained with the warriors and were captured and taken to the nearby mission at Saint Ignace. They both were tortured before being killed. Jean Brebeuf died on March 16, 1649 and Gabriel Lalemant died on March 17, 1649. After the withdrawal of the Iroquois war party from the area on March 19, seven Frenchmen went to St. Ignace to retrieve the bodies of the Jesuits and Huron. They returned them to Sainte-Marie where they were buried.

Lalemant was canonized by Pope Pius XI on June 29, 1930.

His surname may be spelled either Lallemant or Lalemant by different references.

Message From The Faithful Navigator S.K. Joseph Rocha, PGK,

Worthy Sir Knights,

Just over a month ago we were all happy to celebrate Easter and the Risen Christ.

Now as the month of May has started it looks like Spring has finally sprung and we are starting to enjoy the warm weather. It certainly felt like it has been a very long winter.

At our general meeting on May 10, nominations will be open for choosing the new executives and then the elections will follow.

Worthy Knights, this is your opportunity to consider taking up a position in the new executive. If you do not want to take up a position, then at least come for the meeting and show your support for the other knights.

At the Masters District Meeting held on April 14, 2018 at St. Luke's Church in Thornhill, our Assembly was presented with the Civic Award, The Patriotic Service Award and the Award of Merit. This is due to all the hard work of the Assembly members during the year.

A big thank you to the Sir Knights that came out for the numerous honour guards that we have had. Remember that we only have until June 30, 2019 to wear our current regalia, so take this opportunity to come out and make full use of your regalia. This fraternal year I have only attended 49 Honour Guards and I would certainly welcome the competition.

The March for Life takes place in Ottawa on May 9, 10 and 11th. Saturday May 12th - Special Olympics, Hawk Ridge Golf and Country Club at 6.00 pm.

This year the Blue Mass is being held on Wednesday. May₁, 6, at the Blessed Trinity Church, 3320 Bayview Ave, just north of Finch Ave,. It will start at 7.00 pm, but arrival time is 6.15 to 6.30 pm.
